SUPERIOR COURT OF WASHINGTON FOR KING COUNTY

T.V., a single woman,

Plaintiff,

CATHOLIC COMMUNITY SERVICES OF WESTERN WASHINGTON, a Washington corporation; and THE MATT TALBOT NEW HOPE RECOVERY CENTER, a/k/a THE MATT TALBOT CENTER, Defendants.

No. 12-2-23705-1 SEA

ANSWER, AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES, AND COUNTERCLAIMS OF CATHOLIC COMMUNITY SERVICES OF WESTERN WASHINGTON

COMES NOW Defendant Catholic Community Services of Western Washington (referred to herein as "the Defendant"), by and through its counsel of record, Patterson Buchanan Fobes & Leitch, Inc., P.S., and hereby answers the Complaint for Personal Injury by Plaintiff T.V. (referred to herein as "the Plaintiff"). Unless specifically admitted, all allegations contained in the Plaintiff's complaint are denied. The Defendant further expressly denies all allegations of any kind of wrongdoing against Plaintiff.

- 1.1 Answering paragraph 1.1 of the Plaintiff's Complaint, the Defendant has insufficient knowledge or information to form a belief as to the truth or falsity of this allegation; therefore, the Defendant denies the same.
- 1.2 Answering paragraph 1.2 of the Plaintiff's Complaint, the Defendant admits that The Matt Talbot New Hope Recovery Center, also known as The Matt Talbot Center, is a Washington state licensed treatment program serving the homeless, addicted, and mentally ill. The Defendant admits that The Matt Talbot Center is located in Seattle, Washington. As to any remaining allegations, the Defendant denies the same.
- 1.3 Answering paragraph 1.3 of the Plaintiff's Complaint, the Defendant admits that Catholic Community Services of Western Washington is a Washington non-profit corporation under the leadership of the Archbishop of Seattle and the Board of Trustees. The Defendant admits that Catholic Community Services of Western Washington administers The Matt Talbot Center. The allegation that the Defendant is "responsible for the actions of the Talbot Center" calls for a legal conclusion for the court to determine; therefore, the Defendant denies the same. As to any remaining allegations, the Defendant denies the same.
- 1.4 Answering paragraph 1.4 of the Plaintiff's Complaint, the Defendant admits that David Scratchley worked (first as a contractor and then as an employee) for The Matt Talbot Center from approximately April 2006 until September 2011, but denies that David Scratchley was employed by The Matt Talbot Center. The Defendant denies that David Scratchley was employed as "the director of the drug treatment programs." As to any remaining allegations, the Defendant denies the same.
- 1.5 Answering paragraph 1.5 of the Plaintiff's Complaint, the allegations call for legal conclusions for the court to determine; therefore, the Defendant denies the same.
- 2.1 Answering paragraph 2.1 of the Plaintiff's Complaint, the Defendant has insufficient knowledge or information to form a belief as to the truth or falsity of the allegation ANSWER AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES 2 that "David Scratchley held himself out as a psychologist;" therefore, the Defendant denies the same. The Defendant admits that David Scratchley was "an expert on such topics as parenting, drug treatment, and mental health conditions accompanying addiction." The Defendant admits that David Scratchley "authored books on the subjects, frequently gave speeches to various groups, and co-hosted a radio show." As to any remaining allegations, the Defendant denies the same.

- Answering paragraph 2.2 of the Plaintiff's Complaint, the Defendant denies that 2.2 "The Talbot Center hired [David] Scratchley to become the director of its drug treatment programs." The Defendant denies that "The Talbot Center did not check [David] Scratchley's references, credentials, or contact his previous employers to determine his suitability to direct the treatment programs and offer psychological counseling." The Defendant denies that "[David] Scratchley remained employed at The Matt Talbot Center until approximately July 2011." The Defendant denies that "The Matt Talbot Center trumpeted [David] Scratchley on its website as a respected psychologist in its treatment programs." The Defendant admits that The Matt Talbot Center had posted the following language on its website: "[S]upervised by Dr. David Scratchley, Ph.D., Clinical Psychologist and renowned Addictionologist, our recovery and relapse prevention program addresses the physiology, psychology, and sociology of addiction." The Defendant has insufficient knowledge or information to form a belief as to the truth or falsity of the allegation that [David] Scratchley has never been a licensed psychologist in the state of Washington;" therefore, the Defendant denies the same. The Defendant has insufficient knowledge or information to form a belief as to the truth or falsity of the allegation that "the only state health license [David] Scratchley held was an entry level certification as a chemical dependency trainee, licensed in 2009;" therefore, the Defendant denies the same. As to any remaining allegations, the Defendant denies the same.
- 2.3 Answering paragraph 2.3 of the Plaintiff's Complaint, the Defendant admits that David Scratchley worked (first as a contractor and then as an employee) for The Matt Talbot ANSWER AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES 3
